The feature is a one room prairie school on a wood foundation. The gable roofs of both the school and the entry are covered with asphalt shingles. There is a yellow brick chimney at the peak near the north end of the school, some of the top bricks are missing. The soffits are closed. The building measures 24 feet north to south and 18 feet east to west and the entry measures 16 feet east to west and 10 feet north to south.

There is a wide trim board on the wall under the soffits at the peak ends of the school and entry. The remainder of the siding is 6 inch wood lap with 4 inch wood trim. On the north side of the school, at the bottom 1/4, the siding is beginning to fall away. The south wall of the entry has an opening was filled in with siding on the west half and a small window with framing and no glass on the east half. There is a window on the west wall of the entry. The exterior entry door is missing while a 5 panel door into the main body of the school is locked. The entry walls and ceiling of the east half are covered with beadboard while the west half has stud walls only. The interior walls of the school are covered with paneling on the top half and beadboard wainscot on the lower half. One small blackboard remains on the north wall. The ceiling is covered with beadboard. The floor is tongue and groove hardwood. There are three double hung, two over two, windows on both the west and east sides of the school. On the west side there are hinged shutters for all three windows and the south most window shutter is open. On the east two of the three windows are uncovered and most of the glass remains.
