There is a shed at the south end of the school, owner suggested that it might have been used for a teacherage or storage. There is a metal covered entry plywood door on the west wall. There are four windows on the west wall, two either side of the door. They are double hung wit intact glass, a couple have plywood covers. There are three double hung windows on the north end, all covered with the tin siding. The walls are lathe and plaster while the ceiling is covered with beadboard. The floor is hard wood. There are globe light fixtures indicating electricity. There is wainscot on the walls and a fuel burning stove at the south end of the main room of the school. A 4 panel wood door gives entry to the south addition. Blackboards run the entire length of the east wall. Today the building is used for storage.
