The feature is a one room prairie school on a poured concrete foundation. The intersecting gable roofs along with the half hip of the north addition have very few wood shakes. Remnants of a bell tower are located on the west gable of the entry and has a wood base with four corner posts to the supports of the top of the tower. There chimney is gone. The building measures 28 feet north to south and 20 feet east to west with the north addition measuring 6 feet by 12 feet and the entry 14 feet by 14 feet.

There is a wide trim board under the soffits on all the peak ends with the remainder of the siding 6 inch lap with 6 inch wood corner trim finished by waterboard and a skirting board. The siding is beginning to fall way from the planking. The porch leading to the entry door has fallen away from the school. All the doors are gone throughout the building. There is broken wood door opening into the entry. The walls in the entry are lathe and plaster with beadboard wainscot and much of the plaster is fall off. There are two small window openings on the north wall of the toilet addition. The toilets have 5 panel wood doors. There is a double hung window opening on the west wall of the entry. A diamond shaped opening above the window has no glass. The east wall is wide open with what looks like two sets of three windows with a set of two in the middle for a total of 8 windows, some framing and no glass. The walls and ceiling are lathe and plaster with some of the plaster falling off the walls and all of the ceiling plaster laying on the floor. The floor is tongue and groove hardwood. Blackboards are gone. A furnace is near the north wall with a furnace surround. There is wainscot throughout. No signs of electricity.
