1. Feature Description, Integrity, Eligibility:

This one wood framed, one room school sits on a rock and mortar foundation. Wood lap siding covers the building. It is a larger school measuring 24 feet north to south and 38 feet 6 inches east to west. There is one window, boarded up, on the south side, two boarded up windows on the west side and two boarded up windows on the north side. The north side also has a large hole where there might have been two more windows before it was cut out. The north wall appears to be bowing as the foundation crumbles. There is a small, high opening at the northeast corner of the school entry, perhaps used for fuel. The east wall of the school entry also has two boarded up windows. The entry to the school, measuring 8 feet by 7 feet, is at the southeast corner of the building and there are support posts holding up the roof of the entry at this point. There are concrete steps leading to a wood porch for access to the school.

There was no access to the interior of the school but the north opening showed lath and plaster ceiling as well as wainscoting on the south and west sides of the main room of the school. Conduit on the north side of the building would indicate the presence of electricity.

There is a chimney with two different kinds of brick at the west end of the building. The roof is wood shakes over wood, many of which are missing. This is a pretty tired school.

Colvin School District #10 was originally part of Anderson School District #15. Anderson School district was formed August 17, 1892 and was divided into two districts about 1904. One of those districts was Colvin. In 1960 Colvin was reorganized and annexed with McHenry and Tolna.
