This is a one-room prairie school in what might be the original location. The building looks to be in fair condition with shakes on the roof, a brick chimney that looks to be missing a few bricks and the flag pole still at the south end of the roof. A wide trim board runs just below the overhang. 6 inch lap siding covers the building with 6 inch wood trim boards finishing the corners. Over half of the windows are covered with plywood and the remaining windows have intact glass. The east side of the building looks to have a large opening today half covered with plywood and the other half a locked, modern looking door. The entry porch is gone. There are electrical wires on the east side of the school that would indicate electricity at some point. The school sits on rocks and mortar.

The school is locked but in looking into the uncovered windows I could see that the lower part of the windows have curtains and upper have remnants of shades. There is a blackboard running the entire length of the north wall. There is wainscoting on the walls I can see through the windows. Bare bulb light fixtures hang from the ceiling. It looks like the walls are lathe and plaster and the floor is hard wood tongue and groove. There is a closed door at the east end of the school room leading me to believe there might be a coat room/ entry area at the east end of the school. Voting booths can be seen in the main room of the school.

Schools in this area consolidated in 1959.
