FEATURE DESCRIPTION This feature is the first established Inkster schoolhouse. At one time it was located north of the Inkster cemetery. It was then moved to an area just off the road and about 100 feet north of the Grabinski approach. From there, Leonard Grabinski moved it into the actual farmyard (where it is today). While Mr. Grabinski has altered the structure by using it as a granary, the basic structure and many of the details remain intact.

OTHER HISTORICAL INFORMATION In reference to Lutheran services prior to the construction of a church building ... "These services (Sunday school) took place in Strabane school house, which was located north of Inkster near the cemetery. It was later relocated a mile further north near the river." From a pamphlet entitled "Faith Lutheran Church, Inkster, North Dakota 1884-1973".

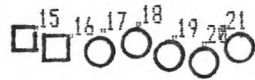

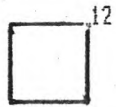

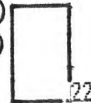

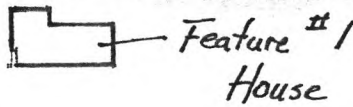

COMMENTS/REFERENCES Despite alterations, I believe that the building should be taken out of use and preserved. Mr. Grabanski expressed some interest in preserving the structure. A number of local residents have expressed this same opinion to him.
