The feature is a one room prairie school that measures 20 feet north to south and 18 feet east to west. The school was sitting on concrete footings and the floor was entirely gone inside. The roof has shakes with a flag pole at the south end of the main body of the school. No chimney left on the roof. There is wide trim board under the roof overhang on the peak ends, the soffit along the east and west sides is closed. There is lap siding on the building with wood trim boards at the corner. There is a door opening at the north end of the school and another door at the south end of the school. A concrete pad is at the entry door. The only floor in the building is tongue and groove floor in the entry. The window openings are intact but there is not glass or window framing. Another small window in the entry also is missing glass. The interior walls are all covered with beadboard.
