DESCRIPTION/INTEGRITY/ELIGIBILITY A townhall was recorded at this location. The building is on the northeast side of a low hill in what was once rolling upland grassland. The areas surrounding the building are all in cultivation.

The townhall is a rectangular plan, wood frame building clad with horizontal board siding measuring 35 feet east to west by 20 feet north to south. It has a concrete foundation and basement. A large portion of the north basement wall has collapsed inward. The building has a hip roof with wood shingles.

On the Garrison Northeast Quadrangle, this building is labeled "townhall." The building was probably once a one room schoolhouse; blackboards are still in place on the west wall of the interior. This locality is not mentioned in Tweton's (1978) historic documents search for the Regional Environmental Assessment Program.

Records on file at the McLean County Register of Deeds indicate that David Seidler received a patent to the land on April 18, 1910. He sold the land to Christian Wacker on September 9, 1912. The Wacker family sold the property to K.I. Knapp on April 18, 1923. K.I. and Stella Knapp kept the land until January 3, 1929, when they sold it to Theo. Dubbs. On October 2, 1940, McLean County obtained the land. The current owner, Arthur Eslinger, purchased the land on January 26, 1944.

While the building is in good condition, it does not have any architectural attributes which would set it apart from other townhalls of this same general style and age. However, archival research to establish the township hall's history would need to be conducted prior to determining the site's eligibility for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places. This site will be avoided by moving the proposed right of way to the east.

PROJECT TITLE Cultural Resource Inventory for the Garrison Rural Water System, McLean County, North Dakota

REPORT TITLE Cultural Resource Inventory for the Garrison Rural Water System, McLean County, North Dakota

SITE AREA (in square feet) 700 square feet

ACCESS From the intersection of U.S. 83 and N.D. 37, travel east on the blacktop road three miles. The road curves north at this point. Travel north .75 mile. The site is on the west side of the road just south of the fork in the road.

DESCRIPTION The townhall is a rectangular plan, wood frame building clad with horizontal board siding. The building is on the northeast side of a low hill and is surrounded by cultivated fields.

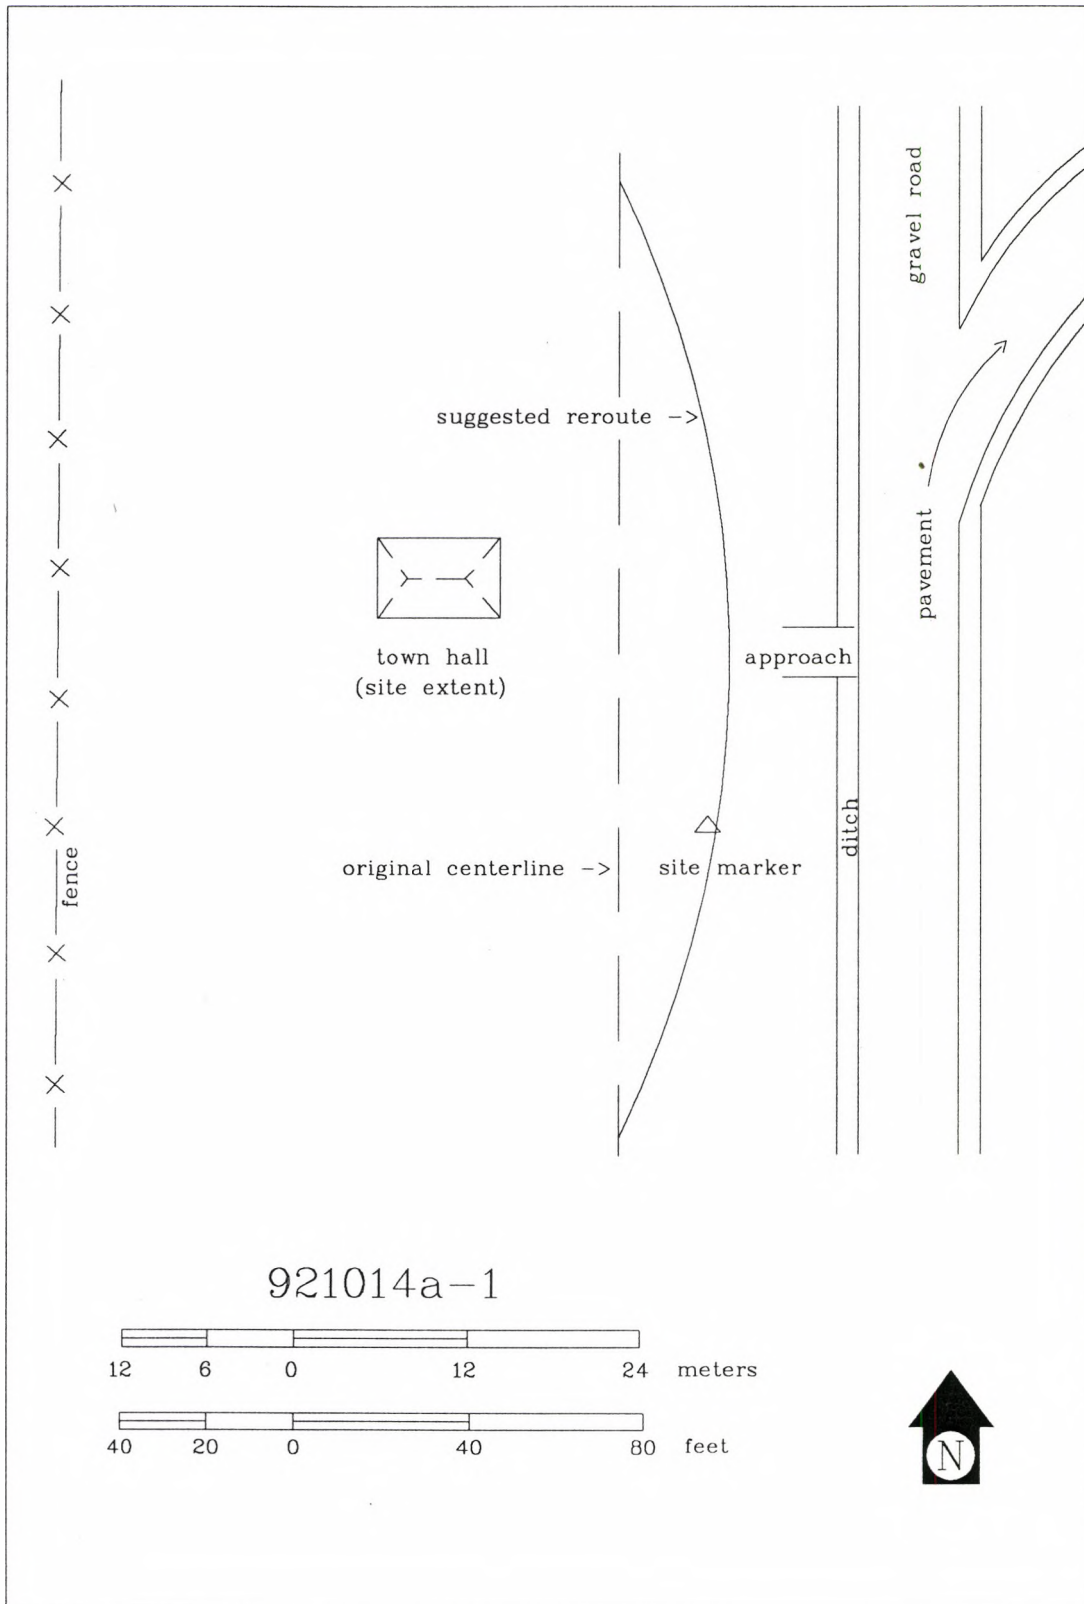

SUMMARY OF SITE FEATURES AND EVALUATION OF SIGNIFICANCE The townhall is the only feature recorded at this location. While the building is in good condition, it does not have any architectural attributes which would set it apart from other townhalls of this same general style and age. However, archival research to establish the township hall's history would need to be conducted prior to determining the site's eligibility for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places. This site will be avoided by moving the proposed right of way to the east.
